

An aerial photograph of a river, likely the Colorado River, flowing through a deep, rugged canyon. The river is a vibrant blue-green color, contrasting with the dark, rocky walls of the canyon. The canyon floor is covered in loose rocks and debris. In the background, more distant mountain ranges are visible under a clear sky.

Quantification Settlement Agreement

OCTOBER 2003

Letter from the President

Southern California Agencies

State and Southern California Agencies

Federal Government and So. California Agencies